

Olympic Sports and Medals (1896-2014)

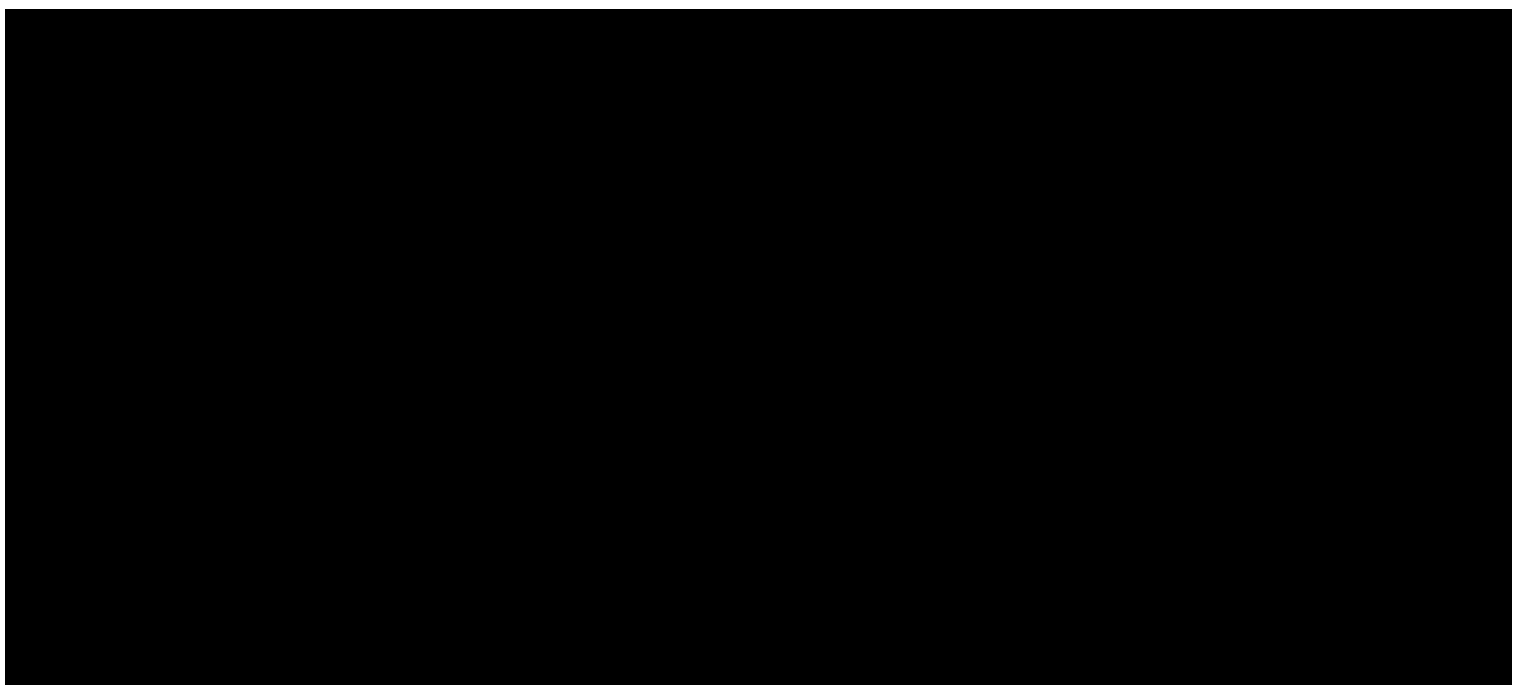

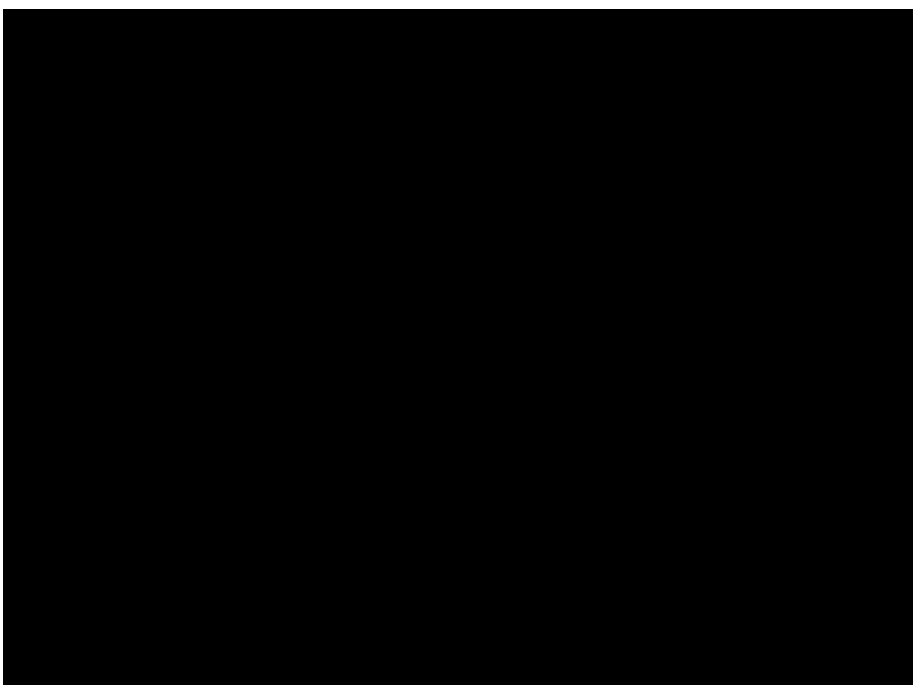

Medal Count for Each Country

The table below shows the total number of winter Olympic sports in each country from 1894 to 2014. According to the table from Data was provided by the IOC Research and Reference Service and published by The Guardian's Datablog., Canada earned the largest number of gold medals among 45 countries with 315 gold medals, while the United States earned the largest total number of medals with 653 medals. However, the United States has 148 fewer gold medals than Canada. Therefore, it is proving that Canada is the best gold medal country among 45 countries.

Medal Count for Each Country

Canada has the largest rate of gold 50 percent. In particular, among the sports events of Ice Hockey, Bobsleigh, Curling, Skating, Skiing, and Biathlon, it has won 220 gold medals in Ice Hockey, demonstrating that it is a powerhouse of Ice Hockey.

Medal Count for Each Country

The table below shows the total number of winter Olympic sports in each country from 1894 to 2014. According to the table, Canada earned the largest number of gold medals among 45 countries with 315 gold medals, while the United States earned the largest total number of medals with 653 medals. However, the United States has 148 fewer gold medals than Canada. Therefore, it is proving that Canada is the best gold medal country among 45 countries.